FDA forces Fish Oil, Krill, Algae and all other sources of DHA and EPA Omega 3's, to put inconclusive statement on their labels, after causing many deaths and seriously affecting the health of Americans.

LAKELAND, Florida, June 26, 2019: Anutra Super Grain LLC, the leading developer and #1 doctor recommended provider of essential FDA approved plant-based ALA Omega 3's is highly encouraged that the FDA is finally forcing manufacturers and sellers of unessential DHA and EPA products to state on their labels that Omega 3 claims from fish oil, fish, krill, algae and all other DHA and EPA sources that continue to be illegal must be changed.

Compliance of the FDA law, effective January 1, 2016 prohibiting DHA & EPA health claims was not followed by the industry even after successful law suits filed against major sellers of illegal DHA and EPA products. Because of this non-compliance that put unknowing consumers at serious health risk, including many deaths, the June 19, 2019 new FDA compliance decision was critical for the safety and well-being of all Americans.

American Medical Association published online JAMA Cardiology January 31, 2018. The AMA conducted the world's largest DHA & EPA Omega 3 study in history involving nearly 78,000 patients in all. DHA & EPA Omega 3's found in marine sources such as fish oil, krill, algae and others were given or a placebo. The researches found no significant benefits of DHA & EPA Omega 3 supplements in preventing death from heart disease, heart attacks, stroke, or death from any cause.

Sarbanes-Oxley Federal SEC Law requires CEO's and CFO's to sign mandatory reports disclosing Federal Law violations. Failure to report Omega-3 violations under Federal SEC Law can be fined not more than $5,000,000 or imprisoned not more than 20 years or both. The FDA has sued companies for these serious violations and will aggressively continue compliance enforcement actions.

Anutra's properties are clinically proven to work, therefore permitted by the FDA to make high, good and more claims. Without essential Omega 3's (ALA) found abundantly in Anutra, necessary to regenerate healthiest new cells and perform many other important functions, human life would not exist. Manufacturers, Distributors and Most Retailers Continue Violating Federal Law, Seriously Threatening the Health of America

January 1st, 2016 FDA prohibited sellers of any food supplement including fish, fish oil, krill and algae from making any claims about DHA and EPA Omega-3s because health benefits are unproven.
